

Colin Tipping

Author, Speaker, Educator

Born in England in 1941, Colin Tipping was raised during the war and in early post-war Britain by working-class parents. He had an elder brother and a younger sister. By his own account his parents were good people, loving and hard-working, and he considers himself blessed by having had a stable and enjoyable childhood in spite of the social hardships of the time.

Even as a boy, he seemed to inspire the trust of people who needed to talk about their feelings. In him they found one who would listen to them and not judge. After a four-year stint in the Royal Air Force, and three years in the corporate world, he became a college professor, but even then often found himself being sought after to provide counseling.

At the age of 43 and recently divorced, Colin left a secure teaching job at a British university in 1984 and immigrated to the United States. He came to join another British ex-pat who had created a school of woodworking in Vermont. Colin came to help him write a series of 12 books on European woodworking. When the project fell apart, Colin launched out on his own and became a clinical hypnotherapist. He had no idea at that point that he would eventually become the leading expert in a form of forgiveness that was little short of revolutionary and totally life-changing for hundreds, if not thousands, of people, as well as for businesses and organizations.

The Cancer Connection

He began practicing hypnotherapy in Atlanta, Georgia in 1987, and for no apparent reason that he could discern, he began to attract people to his practice who were, or had been, challenged with cancer. He researched the scientific evidence for the emotional factors in the causation of cancer and found there to be a strong link between cancer and a resistance to forgiveness.

The research clearly showed that the typical cancer patient was the type who stuffed their feelings deep down and appeared then not to be angry at all.. This has been dubbed the Type-C personality. The internal rage which they had so expertly repressed tended to come out eventually as cancer.

The Georgia CancerHelp Program

Colin and his wife JoAnn formed a non-profit corporation, Together-We-Heal, Inc., offering cancer retreats dedicated to the spiritual and emotional healing of people who had, or were experiencing, cancer. Colin realized that conventional forgiveness was never going to work with these folks. It was far too difficult and took years to achieve, if it happened at all, and was even more difficult as they had spent a lifetime avoiding it.

Born Out of Necessity

He needed a form of emotional release similar to, but infinitely more effective than mere forgiveness, that would be quick, easy to do and a simple step by step process. So, drawing on ideas rooted in A Course in Miracles and other texts, he added his own ideas to create a form of forgiveness that was radically different and special. Radical Forgiveness, then, was born out of the necessity of helping people with cancer.

Colin's Gift

The main characteristic of his work is a practical spirituality that is simple, honest, straight-forward and unpretentious. He has a knack of making spiritual issues simple and practical. He believes that spirituality is useless if it cannot be used in a practical way in our everyday life. His books all have a practical side to them as do his workshops.

Transforming Lives

He wrote his first book, Radical Forgiveness, Making Room for the Miracle in 1997, and the rest, as they say, is history.

Radical Forgiveness Around the World

- Colin has since been teaching Radical Forgiveness to people all around the world in a variety of ways:
- His workshops, including Expanding in Love and the Miracles Workshop, are renowned as life changing experiences that transform peoples' lives virtually overnight.
- He has saved many a marriage with his Make-It-Or-Break-It, Couples-in-Crisis Clinic in which he works with between 2 - 6 couples over a period of time comprising two weekends sessions and coaching in between.
- He developed a Radical Forgiveness Circle Ceremony based on one taught to him by a Native American. He has done this ceremony all over the world with up to 250 people participating.
- He has taken his Quantum Energy Management System (QEMS) into corporations and other organizations as a way of resolving and preventing conflict, raising morale, and increasing productivity.

Expanding the Core Technology

To the core technology of Radical Forgiveness he has added Radical Relationships, Radical Self-Empowerment, Radical Manifestation, Radical Awakening, and Radical Transformation all now existing under the inclusive umbrella of Radical Living and the Tipping Method

Training Others to Teach The Tipping Method
